OPENS CAMPAIGN

Taxation, He Says, to Be Main Issue in 1934 Battle.

Announcing the big issue as taxation, John J. Blaine, governor of Wisconsin, in a speech at the Myers theater Monday night threw his hat into the ring as a candidate for reelection as the chief executive of Wisconsin. The governor widened the breach between his forces and those of Senator La Follette when he declared the seats of those men who were traitors to their party and pledged to fight for the state. He must be killed at the next election by men who will be true to the progressive standard, he said. An audience that filled the main floor and part of the balcony heard his keynote address.

Governor Blaine announced that he would for the third time go to the people of Wisconsin and ask them to elect a legislature that would cooperate. He defined the taxation situation in Wisconsin and explained the administration tax measure defeated at the last legislative session was the only equitable one. He declared the other bill introduced "was conceived overnight and born in the morning" and that he would not have approved either one.

The governor spoke for two hours on what he called "the dry subject of taxation." He said that the audience stayed to the conclusion. Apparently carrying out his desire to make the "dry subject" entertaining, the governor addressed a large part of his remarks to the reporter of the Janesville Gazette, asking that the Gazette especially mention certain references he made in his speech which he considered important. Part of his speech was devoted to summarizing an editorial in the Gazette on the situation existing among the normal schools and making a political football out of the state board of control, which the chief executive denied.

Governor Blaine's speech here given under the auspices of the League of Eagles, was postponed from last Friday night when he refused to speak at the high school under the restrictions placed upon him by the board of education. Those restrictions were the legal requirements that the speech must be non-political and non-partisan.

Reference to this was made by the governor in his opening remarks when he read an editorial which he said was from "the Janesville Journal and not from the Janesville Gazette." The editorial was in reference to the Janesville board of education refusing to allow the governor to make a political speech in the high school and criticized its action. It also referred to Senator Lenroot speaking in the high school in Stevens Point and no one raising an objection.

"I suppose Senator Lenroot observed the law in Stevens Point," said Governor Blaine, "but I can find nothing in the law to prohibit the use of the high school for such a purpose. Schools are designed as civic centers, then why should they not be used for public purposes?"

An Eagle himself, Governor Blaine praised the work of the Eagles in the "wholesome legislation as the mothers' pensions" and "the child labor law." He was applauded when he declared that he believes it economically sound to keep old mothers and boys at home rather than sending them "over the hill to the poor house."

BILL LAWYER PLEADS GUILTY. CIRCUIT COURT DISMISSES THREE

Two more pleas of guilty were entered in the Rock county circuit court Monday morning in the criminal cases. It was rather a surprise that a guilty plea was made in the case against W. E. Lawyer, hotel keeper, Janesville, when the case was called for trial.

One of the main witnesses for the state, a former clerk at the London hotel, had left Janesville for Milwaukee. He was located by District Attorney S. G. Dunneville, and brought here as a witness. On his appearance there was a change of plea.

Parrell Pleads Guilty.
A guilty plea was also made in the case against Austin Parrell, Evansville, an employee of the power plant following the ruling of the court to refuse to quash the complaint. It was claimed by L. A. Avery, counsel for the defense, that the defendant lived at the power plant, sleeping there and only going out for meals. The right of Chief of Police Fred Gilman to make an arrest without a search warrant was questioned. The claim being the power house was "Parrell's home."

Sentenced Nov. 26.
These two defendants and Harry Carroll and John B. Tullis, who pleaded guilty to prohibition violations Monday will be arraigned for sentence before Judge George Grimm on next Monday, Nov. 26. The court gave instructions that police officers and others be on hand to present the facts of the case.

The court called the case of the state against Neil Schumaker, 20, charged with a statutory offense against Illinois Goode age 16. J. G. McWilliams is appearing for the defendant. The case was brought to the circuit court on a change of venue.

FOREMOST BANKER OF GERMANY DEAD

Man Who Financed World War for Reich Dies at Age of 66.

Berlin—Dr. Rudolf E. A. Havesstein, president of the Reichsbank, died at his home here today at the age of 66.

Dr. Havesstein became president of the Reichsbank in December, 1927, and directed the German government's financial policy during the war, which was accomplished by long succession of internal loans. After the armistice he represented the Reich at various financial conferences with the Allies, including the negotiations with the Bank of England for the guarantee demanded by Belgium.

When the mark began to fall, Dr. Havesstein warned against the consequences of the collapse of the currency and emphasized the necessity of a new financial policy. His resignation was demanded by several sections of public opinion, but he retained his position, and worked toward the establishment of a new financial policy, which was placed in circulation on a gold basis only a few days ago.

He was 66 years old.

3 LIQUOR CASES DROPPED AS FALL COURT TERM OPENS

Before swearing in the petit jury for the fall term of the Rock county circuit court, which opened here Monday afternoon, Judge George Grimm warned the jurors against allowing personal prejudice to influence their judgment, with special mention of the prohibition legislation.

"Jurors are called to apply the law—not to make the law," declared the court. "It is not a question of whether your own views are for or against a law, such as the prohibition legislation, but whether the man accused of the offense is guilty of the existing law. You are not there to change the law and if you allow personal feeling or prejudice to influence your honest judgment, you are violating your oath and committing treason."

Judge Grimm announced that he was satisfied women jurors were a (Continued on page 3)

By Associated Press.

Those working above ground immediately began the rescue work and were soon aided by city firemen and police. Working in relays, the men removed the wreckage caused by the cave-in and found John Adamczyk, 20, Milwaukee, alive. He was taken to the emergency hospital, where it is said he has fair chance for recovery.

James Casper, Stanley Burkolich and John Kanarek, all of Milwaukee, were dead when the workers reached their bodies.

The accident is the third of a serious nature which has occurred since the city began work on reconstruction of the sewer system.

Walton, Deposed by Senate Vote, Seeks Court Aid

By Associated Press.
BULLETIN.
Oklahoma City—A statement reiterating his determination to continue the fight was issued here today by J. C. Walton, removed from office as governor by a senate vote of impeachment.

"Only the rule gave a ship in distress," the deposed executive asserted.

"I have deserted me in this fight and the ship is not sinking. It is only the shadow they see in the water."

"Time is the best of friends," the statement, addressed to "the people everywhere," asserted. "It will decide whether I am right or wrong. It appears to me that the will of the majority of the two and one half million people expressed at the polls last November has been set at naught and nullified by a minority of a scant 31 acting in obedience to no law, explicitly and implicitly, and without inquiry of the command, not of justice, but of the devilish empire" the statement declared.

"I feel that I represent the throbbing heart of humanity and the highest ideals of American citizenship."

"The impeachment trial, the statement said, was a lie, as well as a disgraceful. Its legitimacy would be speedily determined by the highest court in the land."

NEGRO ASSAILANT OF WOMAN HELD IN KENTUCKY JAIL

Owensboro, Ky.—Charles R. Freeman, 27, negro, alleged to have attacked Mrs. W. M. Stiles, 55, was held in the Owensboro jail here today for safe keeping, following his capture last night after he had eluded two deputy sheriffs following his arrest.

After Freeman had been arrested yesterday on suspicion and taken before Mrs. Stiles, who said she believed he was the guilty person, he was sent to Owensboro, Ky. In charge of the deputies. Enroute to the jail, the prisoner asked permission to stop at his home and get some medicine. The deputies waited on the front porch. Finally they became impatient and entered the house, only to find that the prisoner had disappeared.

Later he was found hiding under the floor of the house, by Sheriff Roberts, who sent members of a large posse, which had gathered to help in the search, off on a false trail, and brought the negro here and placed him in jail.

OPTIMISM REIGNS AS ALLIES HIT ON PLAN FOR ACTION

BRITAIN EXPECTED TO JOIN IN NOTE TO GERMANY.

SAFETY DEMANDED

Council of Ambassadors to Await Instructions for Wednesday Session.

By Associated Press.
Paris—After six days of negotiations, four meetings and five adjournments, the ambassadors council has hit on a compromise formula for dealing with Germany, which, even if it only postpones the evil hour of decision, as many maintain, at least also postpones a break in the allied front.

The feeling here today was just as optimistic as it was pessimistic yesterday, for the agreement to send a note to Germany has been fully endorsed by the French and Belgian cabinets and, judging from the tone of London, will be endorsed by the British.

It was believed here this morning that the agreement on the proposed note, in which the allies will demand that their military control of the Rhine be maintained, would be completed before the end of the afternoon.

The meeting of the council of ambassadors, called for 6 this afternoon, will not be held. It was announced shortly after 4 p. m. Lord Balfour, the British ambassador, notified the secretariat that his government, owing to stress of business, was unable to communicate his instructions in time for today's meeting.

The instructions are expected to arrive in season for a meeting tomorrow.

DANGER OF RUPTURE IS BELIEVED
By Associated Press.
London—British government officials considered this morning that all danger of disagreement with France on the question of the formation of an international military control in Germany had passed. They expected that the council of ambassadors would reach a compromise, unless an unforeseen obstacle intervened at the last moment. The forecast here was along these lines.

The proposed joint note to Germany will not be in the form of an ultimatum, nor will it give the Germans a time limit within which they must comply with the allied conditions. Neither will it demand an immediate formal reply.

McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, were victorious today in their first skirmish in Minnehaha county in the contest to elect delegates to the state party convention next month, three avowed McAdoo men were elected to the county caucus, representing this county, which claims approximately 9 per cent of the state democratic vote.

A total of 2,065 votes were reported in the caucus. Robert M. Joney was unanimously elected, J. H. Davenport polled 1,716 votes, and John Hawley, the third delegate won by 1,670 against 936 for his opponent.

The delegation is unopposed by the entire membership is openly pledged to support McAdoo for the presidency and J. G. Cherry for the democratic senatorial nomination.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—In each of the 23 South Dakota counties today, republican, democratic and farmer-labor conventions met to select delegates to the three state party conventions at Pierre, Dec. 4. The state's political leanings will be disclosed by the instructions, if any, given these county proposals men elected today.

It is believed, the republican race has narrowed down to Senator William Johnson of California and President Coolidge, with several influential republican office holders favoring the former.

The two great factions in the democratic party are understood to favor the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo. The third group is boosting for Henry Ford.

The hardest fight today is expected to be between adherents of Ford and Senator Robert La Follette of Wisconsin, an independent, and conventions throughout the state.

PUBLIC APPROVAL BACKS PROGRAM OF TAX REDUCTION

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1923, by Jamesville Daily

Washington—The country has gotten behind the proposal to reduce taxes. There is no longer any doubt about that. At the White House and President Coolidge is formulating his message to congress with the idea that the American people want their taxes reduced.

By letters, telegrams, newspaper editorials, personal calls from members of congress, the administration has learned that the demand for tax revision is almost unanimous. Public opinion is crystallized rapidly. President Coolidge feels that he can go ahead with recommendations to congress that will have behind them the momentum of the nation's opinion at the outset.

The president is anxious to get the views of house and senate leaders before sending his message to the printers. But the members are slow in drifting back to Washington, so Mr. Coolidge is unable to get their reaction to public affairs as quickly as he would like. He would like to know for instance, just how he should treat the soldier bonus proposal. The politicians say he cannot avoid offering a program for soldier aid because it is inevitable that the democratic candidates for the presidency will urge it. William Gibbs McAdoo has been quoted as saying the government could not afford to pay a bonus too. Since Mr. McAdoo was at one time secretary of the treasury himself, his observations are taken seriously, especially by the bonus men, who say he ought to know.

"Ought" or "ought not" The difficulty about the bonus, however, is not the question of whether it ought to be paid. Sentiment for the payment of the bonus if the government could afford it would be almost unanimous as there have been relatively few attacks against the bonus on principle. The greatest factor is really the uncertainty as to the amount of annual outlay that would be needed. The republicans and opponents of the measure disagree as to the total cost. In the face of such a situation it is hardly likely that the president would simply come out in favor of a bonus without discovering some way of meeting the payments, however large they may be. The president at the moment are that the president will recommend a bonus for the able-bodied but will deal with the reorganization of the Veterans' bureau which is charged with the duty of making payments to the disabled veterans. This would leave it to congress again to take the initiative. It will be recalled that Mr. Harding did not start the bonus agitation but expressed his views after congress had put the matter up to him.

Coolidge to Follow Harding President Coolidge feels that he gave his pledge to the country to follow the lead of the nation's president. Mr. Harding vetoed the bonus bill. But he did suggest that there be a tax revision before the end of the present administration. In his annual message of Dec. 2, 1921, Mr. Harding said: "It would suggest insincerity if I expressed complete accord with every expression recorded in your roll calls, but even so, it is a great relief to the difficulties and the inevitable divergences of opinion in seeking the reduction, amelioration and readjustment of the burdens of taxation. Later on, when other problems are solved, I shall make some recommendations about renewed consideration of our tax program."

Stand by Program Mr. Harding could not have postponed the execution of that promise until the presidential campaign for a second term. Close friends say he favored making it a part of his program this year, though he realized the political dangers of putting a tax revision measure into congress with the republican party divided by radicalism. Mr. Coolidge hopes, however, that enough republicans will stand by the tax program, together with the conservative democrats, so that tax reduction can be accomplished. The outlook at the moment for such a coalition is bright.

Berger Says Profiters Should Pay Yank Bonus Chicago—War profiteers should pay the soldier bonus, Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee declared in a written statement during a visit here yesterday. He said he was against a sales tax for the bonus, because it would mean the soldiers would have to pay their own bonus by an indirect tax.

GAS TAX URGED Oshkosh—At the meeting of the Winnebago county board of supervisors a resolution was adopted asking the legislature to substitute a tax on gasoline in place of the weight tax on automobiles. It was the sense of the resolution that a three cent tax on gasoline would solve the problem of raising funds for roads.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify." No other kidney remedy has so large a sale.

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles, corrects urinary ailments and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

Improvements Being Made at Shade Factory

Alterations to old buildings are being made and a new paint shop is being erected by the Shade Shing Company. The paint shop when completed, will be 40 by 70 feet and will cover the old paint shop, which will be torn down as soon as the roof is completed on the new addition.

Concrete flooring was put in and in order to keep it from freezing steam radiators were installed on the surface and kept the floor warm. The building will be higher than the old paint shop and will be of the saw-tooth type, giving an equal distribution of light. Flowers are being planted on the new roof. The building is of brick. It will also have a basement for the storage of painting material and will be strictly fireproof, with nothing other than concrete used in the entire construction.

The drying rooms will be heated by the warm air expelled from the shop and it is expected that drying will take less time than it does at present. Several new offices are being built onto the old building and a large room for the correspondence staff is nearing completion. There will be three new private offices and the one large room.

When alterations and the new building are completed the Shade Shing will have one of the most up-to-date factories.

Orfordville—Parties from the county highway labor force were in the village on Monday with the intention of securing work for the principal street, a part of the present route 20, which had been closed and afterward became full of holes. Hunters who have been in the northern woods for 10 days arrived home Sunday and Monday. Two deer also arrived, one the property of Joe Setzer and the other of Will Tomlin. Tom Tolleson of the town of Spring Valley has purchased the Frank Schumacher farm of 88 acres.

SEVERAL NEW NOVELS ADDED BY LIBRARY

From among the 750 competitors in the Harper prize novel contest, "The Able McLaughlins" by Margaret Wilson, which has recently been added to the public library collection, has received favorable comment from critics. The Able McLaughlins, Scotch Covenanters, are pioneers in an Iowa community. Wally, the oldest of ten children, is the hero. One of Harold Bell Wright's newer novels, "The Sign of the Iron Door," has also been placed in circulation. The scene, as in many of his books, is laid in the Catalina mountains of Arizona and tells of the man who sought entrance to the lost mine in the Canyon of Gold.

Among the other new fiction are "Fortune's Pool," by Rafael Sabatini, a story of London and the Orient; "The Plotting Danger," by Den Dierck, a mystery story.

STREET WORKERS IN BIG CLEAN-UP

Three Weeks' Systematic Campaign Puts Roads in Good Shape.

Street department workers are bringing to a close this week one of the most systematic and effective fall clean-up campaigns ever known in Jamesville. The clean-up of streets has been in progress three weeks and all but the Fourth ward has been covered. Work is being done there this week.

Four trucks—the White and the three new Chevrolet models—were used in the task and hauled on an average of 18 loads each per day. Assistant City Engineer Joseph Lustig reports. Great masses of dead leaves and other refuse were swept up and carried away to dumping grounds, so that the streets throughout the city are now in excellent shape so far as cleanliness and sanitation are concerned.

Mr. Blaine Wanders About in Janesville.

Governor John J. Blaine came to Janesville Monday night and vindicated the school board in not allowing a political speech in the high school and gave support to the Gazette statement that Mr. Blaine could not talk on taxation without talking politics. Thanks to the invitation of the Gazette to the people of the vicinity to go and hear him, he had a large audience. Outside of doing what was the obvious, announcing his candidacy for a third term formally, the speech delivered Monday night was "old stuff." The governor ran true to form in his attack on newspapers and the Gazette in particular. Mark Twain once remarked that he was hampered by facts. The governor is not at all concerned that way. He has taken no oath to tell the truth and nothing but the truth. Hence neither his hands nor his mind is tied. The truth is that the governor in his candidacy for reelection is fighting within his own party faction. He is fighting La Follette progressives. He is arrayed against the leaders acting for the senior senator who have no confidence in him. The governor's denunciation was for persons in the senate, including Senators Severson and Ridgway, who supported practically all the measures fathered by La Follette and opposed those which the governor substituted.

That is the tax bill situation. The governor, jealous of his job, wanted his own tax bill passed and this hedge-podge of a measure failed. Hence the tears on the part of the governor. In this the governor is, the cheap penny whistle imitator of the senior senator. He calls the roll and on the roll are the names of men who have been following Senator La Follette for many years. The bitterest opponents of Blaine are the La Follette leaders. They have denounced him for his refusal to permit an investigation of the scandalous charges which darkened the last days of the legislature. They are opposed to him in a great measure for the attitude of the governor on the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead and Severyn laws. These were topics not touched upon by the governor in Janesville.

Nothing could have been more fitting than the selection of Senator Garey to introduce the governor. Garey saved the state capitol from an investigation of moral delinquencies which would have shaken the state. Posing as a moral leader, Mr. Garey successfully battled against the clarifying investigation. He received his reward in a fat state office. It is all a part of the political machinery that is being built up to serve personal ambitions. It has nothing to do with good government, honest government, economical government. There has been no tax bill before the legislature which for a moment took into consideration justice for the whole people of the state. In each of the three bills, the Dahl, the Severson and the Blaine, there was an attempt to appeal to class, when in fact it was an unequal distribution of taxation so that the farmer and the laboring man would ultimately pay more than a just share. The bills were misleading and in plain English, pure bunk as reformatory measures. They were designed to catch votes, to deceive and keep the public eye from the real issues.

When it came to be seen that no tax bill could be passed, it was proposed by some of the hard thinking men of the state senate that a committee be named to investigate the whole tax system, make recommendations to the next legislature for a just, fair and honest taxation plan. That system should work no injustice to the farmer, the laborer or to industry. But the governor and all of his faction jumped on that bill. Had such a plan been made it would have left Blaine and his ilk without an issue. Most of the tax stuff from the governor, and that is shown in his speech printed in the Gazette today, is unoperative theory. Nothing is proven—facts do not hamper the governor, justice is far removed from his viewpoint.

Maybe Germany was out of moonshine and could not stage a homecoming for the Kaiser.

AMERICA'S BEAUTIFUL FEET

By FREDERIC J. HASICIN.
Washington.—Word comes from the University of Oregon that the fair coeds at that institution work better, think better and get better grades when they improve their feet. And, as though this were not enough to keep our attention riveted close to the sidewalk, a thousand dollar contest has recently been announced for the purpose of discovering the most beautiful feminine feet in the nation's capital.
The discovery, by American women, of their feet may well rank with modern woman's similar discovery of her head and business ability. In ancient times, women were fully aware of the power of pretty feet. Queen Zenobia, who ruled the beautiful eastern city of Palmyra in the reign of the Roman emperor Aurelian, devised a method of calling attention to her beautiful feet that might well be followed by some enterprising society leaders of today. There was a lovely Indian princess, named Sindaria, who had the misfortune to be captured by Zenobia. Thereupon the queen, who had doubtless received many previous compliments on her beautiful feet, decided that Sindaria should support them, on state occasions, upon an embroidered silken cushion. This plan worked splendidly for a long while, and is said to have done as much for the feet as the Washington contest is now doing for those of the capital.
But Sindaria didn't altogether like the idea, since the publicity was all for Zenobia's benefit rather than for her own. So when Aurelian came over with a Roman army to attack Palmyra, the beautiful Indian slave girl betrayed Zenobia into his hands.
Few women of the last decade realized the value of their feet. Shoes were built for protection and comfort rather than for beauty. But all that has changed. During the past ten years beautiful feet have gradually been emerging from their concealment. Strapped slippers, cut-away shoes, and sandals have gradually come into their own, and the woman who, today, is ashamed of her feet is out of luck.

Miss Gladys Walton, American dancer, claims American girls have the prettiest feet in the world. George Julian Ziegler, Washington sculptor, however, hardly agrees with her. Mr. Ziegler says that ten years ago but one American woman in 10,000 possessed beautiful feet, but he admits they are improving.
The most perfect feet in history were probably those of the ancient Greek maidens—at least if we can judge by the statues that have come down to us. The sandals worn so frankly by Hellenic beauties are to be given much credit for the artistic feet produced in that age. Perhaps Parisian style creators had this in mind when they attempted recently, to introduce barefooted styles for formal evening wear in the ballroom. But only a few of the boldest spirits were equal to the emergency, and the fashion passed.
With all this modern interest in beautiful feet, it becomes necessary to know something about them in order to appreciate properly those we see. The longest nerves in the human body extend from the spinal column into the feet, so that any injury to the foot is felt more keenly than similar injuries to the leg, arm or hand. The foot actually contains 26 bones, arranged in pairs, or arches. It is the breaking down of these delicate arches, or the displacement of some of the numerous bones which go to make them up, that most frequently causes the beauty of the foot to be impaired. Of all the men examined for the United States army during the war, approximately 13 per cent were rejected because of flat feet, broken or fallen arches, and similar foot-troubles. Examination of the feet of five million American women would discover, say the orthopedists, an even larger percentage of broken arches because of high heels.

This leads to a controversy. Miss Harriett Thompson, professor of physical education for women at the University of Oregon, says French heels have been blamed too long for all woman's foot troubles. Any woman can wear French heels, says this authority, who has no weakness in her ankles to start with. But, on the other hand, the combination of French heels and toeing out, a habit indulged in by most American women, is harmful.
Women, in fact, don't realize how many of their troubles come from pointing their toes out as they walk. First come painful feet. Then, because there is not sufficient support for the weight of the body as the woman walks, she tries to take the strain off her feet by dropping her chest forward and down. The organs inside droop, too, and indigestion with its attendant ills follows.
Dr. B. C. Rice of Washington, however, does not altogether agree with Professor Thompson's clean bill of health for French heels. The human foot is made, says the doctor, to support the weight of the body on a horizontal plane. When the whole foot is tipped up so that it is at an angle of 45 degrees, something has to give way under the weight of the body. Usually, it is the arches which crumple.
The beautiful feet must be strong as well as graceful. The less artificial support the feet get, during exercise, the stronger and more natural they grow. So off with the shoes and on with the dance! Dancing, if we can judge from close inspection of the feet of Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn, the Morgan Dancers, and other exponents of barefooted art recently in Washington, produces as nearly perfect feet, both in form and muscular strength, as can be attained in this age of the automobile. Surely, every young woman and some of the older ones, too, should dance on a river bank, where she can wear shoes and stockings, and give her feet a chance! Besides, there is the alluring possibility that some star newspaper photographer might happen along.

The earliest known instance of anything in the nature of a beauty contest for feet was the rivalry among Chinese women, which began thousands of years ago, to see whose feet could be made the smallest. Baby girls feet were tightly bound with strips of cloth in such a way as to bring the ball of the foot, just back of the toes, as near as possible to the heel.
The American woman has devised a psychological method. It took modern feminine genius to discover that the feet could be made to look smaller by wearing black shoes with light stockings.
In America there are some 750 million dollars invested in make-up, counting the money paid out for the worthless paper when it was quoted at 5 to 8 cents a mark. The new gold mark has made its appearance and the old paper is being taken up with the new. Only the most careful method of handling the new issues will preserve the currency from a future as tragic as that of the first issues now worthless.
Charles Murphy, Tammany boss, wants a plank in the democratic platform opposing the Volstead law. He wants it so amended that states desiring to permit the manufacture of alcoholic beverages can do so. He shows a great self restraint in not asking for the old Tammany stronghold, the saloon.
There is an awful lot of wrong thinking in this world. For instance, Al Smith thinks he has a chance for the presidential nomination.
The New York World, looking over the election returns and the added republican membership of the state assembly at once begins to extract sunshine from cucumbers and electric flashes from the cold stone of fact.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.
HONEST.
He was an honest man, and yet
I never liked him much—
His strict opinion of a debt
Was one that pity couldn't touch.
He paid his bills. But that was all
Of him that men could ever say;
And those who owed him, large or small,
To him were also forced to pay.
I knew him for an honest man—
I wish somewhere that I could find
Along the path his journey ran
Some little proof that he was kind.
So bitterly he pressed each claim
That, looking back, it seems to me
He proved (I write it to his shame)
How cruel can a virtue be.
Honor is not enough to hold.
One may be that and still remain
Bitter of heart and icy cold.
And deaf to every cry of pain.
In honor's name a man may fail
To light with joy one dreary place,
Or leave along his selfish trail
A smiling or a friendly face.
Be honest, son of mine, and pay
The final penny you may owe;
Let no man living of you say
You do not settle as you go.
But be you kind as you are true,
Be gentle where so'er you can,
Be helpful here and friendly, too—
Be more than just an honest man.

Who's Who Today

ROBERT J. GRANT.
Selection recently of Robert J. Grant, a Colorado man, as Director of the U. S. Mint came as a surprise to politicians as his name had not been mentioned among the candidates for the position.
Mr. Grant was recommended by Secretary Mellon, who after going over the list of candidates, determined that he was well equipped by experience and training for the post. All political considerations were put aside, it is said, and the recommendation was made strictly on the basis of merit.
The new director of the mint is sixty-one years old. Since 1921 he has been serving as Superintendent of the Denver Mint. For thirty-five years before this he was engaged in gold, silver, lead and zinc mining operations in the United States, Mexico and Canada. At one time he was connected with Secretary Hoover in a gold mining venture in Australia. During the war Mr. Grant served as Director of the Colorado State Food Administration.

LET THEM PLAY
Don't know what is the matter with the boys nowadays. For several years now a cabbage stump has found sanctuary in our vestibule, not a window pane in the house has been smashed by a foul tip or a misplaced snowball, no motor car or motor boat has ever been hung on our curb. The boys around here seem to devote their time to changing their linen, dressing foodstuffs and the movies.
Why do boys go wrong? Here is our version of the psychology of it. Every boy likes to show off. That is human nature. If he hasn't the opportunity to do it in a legitimate, respectable, boyish way, like annoying the neighbors, stealing fruit, baseball, gymnastics, tumbling, races, boxing, and athletic pursuits in general, then he avails himself of other means. He can smoke a cigar and win the admiration and applause of his companions who have not yet grown quite so bold. He can stride into a bar while the weak kneed sissies hesitate outside.
It is a shame to arrest boys for playing ball on the streets, for stealing a little ripe fruit, for annoying a tempting target, or for any of the thousand and one respectable things every real boy does to let off steam and gratify that universal desire. Especially is it wrong in a community to do this when no adequate place is provided for boys to play. What could you do—make your boys little old men, the water conservators? Have you forgotten the scores of times you would have been jailed had your community taken such a view of play boys?
Let youth have a chance. Let age stand by to give counsel and caution, but let youth run things. That is the way to govern a city which pretends to be progressive. Youth is progress. Age is conservative, standstill. Ample ground for play is what we need. And gymnasia, what we need, are not gymnasia, but playgrounds with room and equipment for the big boys, the boys who are getting ready to take the turn to

Q. Was the continental currency redeemed by the reorganized government? J. R. T.
A. The treasury department says that the various issues of continental currency were never redeemable by the United States as reorganized under the constitution. By act of Aug. 4, 1910, it was receivable at the treasury in full payment of a loan of $100 continental money for $1 in specie. By the act of March 3, 1917, it was declared that said money should be receivable as above until Dec. 31, 1927.
Q. How the word "Material" long been used to mean "at a serious or substantial import of much consequence" in the past?
A. We find instances of this use of the word in 1629. Francis Bacon employed it thus in 1625.
Q. Does a man die always register near the same time each day in the year? B. G.
A. A sun dial correctly set at precisely noon on any given date will not show the shadow of the gnomon at the same time. This is because we reckon time by a mean sun, that is, the average of the total length of a day over the entire year. The dial shows real or apparent sun and must be corrected for. On some dials the correction is made.
Q. How did family names originate? J. C.
A. During the middle ages a man had no name but his christian or baptismal name. In the course of time there arose the necessity for some other name which was usually derived according to his trade, his residence, his father's name, or some personal peculiarity. A very large number of names are derived from the christian name. Names in each country particular affixes are used. It was not until the twelfth century that surnames became hereditary.

The Step on the Stair

I stood back while they ministered to him. I heard him now and then cry out. "Wealthy! call Wealthy!" And this they finally did. As Orpha passed me on her way to the bell, I saw her full face for the first time since Edgar had told her the truth. It was pale, but as I looked at the high cheekbones and the eyes, it was gone. I felt myself reeling a trifle, and seeing the will lying on the floor where he had dropped it, I lifted it and looked at it. I saw, put it in my pocket. Then I walked away, wondering at the silence, for even the elements waiting without had their usual moaning, and the creaking panes and the rustling of the no longer spoke of tumult.

In this instant of quiet we heard a knock. Wealthy was at the door. As Orpha started to unlock it, it turned again. Edgar had leaped to his feet, his eyes blazing. All his features working in rage. Lucy had withdrawn into the background, the only composed one amongst us. As the old nurse entered Edgar advanced to meet her.

"Let me take you to my room. I have no further rights here unless it is a night's lodging. Here he turned towards me with a pathetic bow. "There is your master," he added, indicating me with one hand as he reached with the other for her arm. "The will has been found. It is in his pocket. By that you may know what it does for him and his voice falling—"what it does for me."

But his mood changed before he reached the door. With a quick twist of his body he took us all again within the sweep of his vision.

Dinner Stories

There is a very sweet girl who studies dreadfully, according to Cartoons. One night when her sweet heart was leaving her accompanied him to the door and said:

"There is your coming again next Sunday."

The dog was on the doorstep. After George had a mile down the road, with a dog and a girl on him, he leaped, and occurred to him that possibly the girl had intended to say "Sunday" instead of "Seize him" but it did not occur to the dog for a mile or so beyond that.

While the diagnosis of the patient, who had eaten rather generously, was proceeding, the sick man said, "Doctor, you think the trouble is in the appendix?"

"Oh, no," said the doctor, "not at all. The trouble is in the stomach."

"Now it can be told, declares Judge. The doctor was making a test for mentality. It was the famous test that established the fact that the average American doughty should never be confused with a college professor. The colonel of the regiment was very enthusiastic over the idea that everyone should take his test. So enthusiastic, in fact, that he insisted that he himself should take the test, as well as all the other officers. This attitude of mind continued until the colonel had reached about half way through the mental test and then he decided that it was not wise for him to continue it.

MRS. BUTLER'S TERRIBLE PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

W. Philadelphia, Pa.—"When I cleaned house last April I must have been afflicted with a terrible pain in my back and abdomen and lower limbs. I went to visit a friend in Mt. Holly, N. J., and she said, 'Mrs. Butler, why don't you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? My husband said that it did her so much good for the same trouble, I should try it. So I have taken it and it is doing me good. Whenever I feel heavy or bad, it puts me right on my feet again. I am able to do my work with pleasure and am getting stronger and stout.'—Mrs. CHARLES BUTLER, 1233 S. Hanson St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.

SUGGESTIONS

To Prevent Sooty Stoves—Get from a stove-maker a quantity of zinc shavings, pieces of zinc too small to be useful in his trade. Burn a handful in the range when the fire is hottest. Smoky and sooty chimneys are often cured by this simple expedient.

To Regulate Work—It is a good plan for each housekeeper to put an order of work for each day, also for the special tasks of the week. Though the array of duties may seem a little startling at first, such a plan will save confusion and wasted time.

Apple Prune Sauce—Core and peel apples. Put in a baking dish with no more than a cover and add a few dashes of salt. Stir until they are soft enough to mash. Put a cup of cooked prunes through a sieve and add it to two cups of hot apple sauce. Beat in one cup of sugar and one-quarter teaspoon of cinnamon. Serve cold.

Put a spoonful of the mixture on each square, put on a few dots of butter and fold into a triangle. Wet edges with cold water and press firmly together; prick top. Put in a shallow pan and bake until brown. Serve with a slice of cheese on top of each triangle.

Apple Ring Salad—Wash red Jonathan apples. Core, enlarging the hollow by removal of the seeds. Cut each apple into four quarters. Cut an inch thick. Brush each slice with a lemon and dip in French dressing. Set apple rings on lettuce leaves, leaving a space between each slice. In which put a little of mixed hickory nuts and celery. Put a ball of cream cheese rolled in chopped nuts on top of each apple ring and turn mayonnaise over the whole. Or remove stones from dates, fill with cream cheese and put one in the center of each apple. Apples are among the best of fruit and are obtained from the fruit of the year, the recipes in today's menu are timely.

SUGGESTIONS

To Prevent Sooty Stoves—Get from a stove-maker a quantity of zinc shavings, pieces of zinc too small to be useful in his trade. Burn a handful in the range when the fire is hottest. Smoky and sooty chimneys are often cured by this simple expedient.

To Regulate Work—It is a good plan for each housekeeper to put an order of work for each day, also for the special tasks of the week. Though the array of duties may seem a little startling at first, such a plan will save confusion and wasted time.

Apple Prune Sauce—Core and peel apples. Put in a baking dish with no more than a cover and add a few dashes of salt. Stir until they are soft enough to mash. Put a cup of cooked prunes through a sieve and add it to two cups of hot apple sauce. Beat in one cup of sugar and one-quarter teaspoon of cinnamon. Serve cold.

Apple Triangles—Sift two cups of flour with one-half teaspoon sugar, one-quarter teaspoon of salt and chop into it three-quarters cup shortening. After chopping, rub with the finger tips until all is mixed. Then wet with cold water to a dough that can be rolled. Roll, fold and roll again, to this four times in all. Then roll and cut into triangles. Each square. Have ready tart apple pulp chopped fine and mixed with one-quarter as much sugar as apple, and one space to flavor. Add a few seedless raisins. Put a spoonful of the mixture on each square, put on a few dots of butter and fold into a triangle. Wet edges with cold water and press firmly together; prick top. Put in a shallow pan and bake until brown. Serve with a slice of cheese on top of each triangle.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children, of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. E. P. Wirtles:

My baby is thirteen months old and weighs twenty-one pounds. I nursed him for five months and then put him on malted milk. At seven months I gave him pure cows milk and later he entirely weaned himself of the malted milk. He did so well that I did not give him vegetables, potatoes, bread, etc., and now he will not eat them. He throws them out or gags until
